To meet the evolving needs of clients and accommodate a growing number of highly skilled attorneys, Sandberg Phoenix has relocated its office from Overland Park, Kansas, to a larger space in the Country Club Plaza neighborhood in Kansas City, Missouri.

The new space at 4600 Madison Avenue increases both the number of offices and meeting rooms available for attorneys to assist clients throughout western Missouri and Kansas. Along with the larger office comes more advanced telecommunications technology, permitting attorneys and paralegals the opportunity to interact with clients regardless of their location.

Under the direction of Office Managing Partner Kevin Krueger, Sandberg Phoenix Kansas City has grown to six full-time attorneys, and is frequented by many of the 100 other Sandberg Phoenix attorneys.

"Our Overland Park office was critical to establishing a presence in the Kansas City market," said Kevin. "Our clients in the area have responded very positively to our close proximity and we're looking to take that a step further with the move to the Plaza."

Attorneys moving with the Kansas City office are Shareholders Ron Marney and Phil Dupont, as well as Associates Ross Boden, Brett Simon, Meghan Lewis and Katrina Smeltzer. They bring with them a wealth of experience in medical malpractice, personal injury defense, business litigation, product liability, commercial litigation, employment litigation and insurance matters.

Sandberg Phoenix is also home to a business law practice group that assists clients throughout the life cycle of a business, from entity formation, contract drafting and various corporate transactions and stock purchases through mergers and acquisitions and succession planning. The firm also offers individual services, including wealth and estate planning and family law.

The new location in Kansas City began operations on December 21, 2015.

The Kansas City office is one of seven Sandberg Phoenix locations, including St. Louis, Missouri; Alton, Illinois; Edwardsville, Illinois; O'Fallon, Illinois; Carbondale, Illinois; and Clayton, Missouri. The office is conveniently located near both the Country Club Plaza and Westport areas. Please visit us at:
