Sandberg Phoenix Names Meghan Lewis Managing Attorney for Kansas City Office

NEWS & EVENTS: ANNOUNCEMENTS

RELATED ATTORNEYS: MEGHAN LEWIS

Sandberg Phoenix has named shareholder Meghan Lewis as managing attorney for the firm's Kansas City, Missouri office. Lewis will assume her new role November 1.

Lewis is an experienced civil litigator and appellate attorney with a history of working in the areas of insurance coverage and bad faith, business litigation, personal injury defense and appellate advocacy. In her new role, Lewis will serve as the liaison between the firm's Kansas City office and its headquarters in St. Louis, drive business development efforts, and manage internal operations.

"We are proud to add another strong, driven attorney to our leadership team," said Bhavik Patel, CEO and managing partner, Sandberg Phoenix. "Meghan is a talented litigator and her dedication to the firm and local community will help us attract new clients and talent to our Kansas City office."

Lewis is a member of the Kansas City Metropolitan Bar Association; Association for Women Lawyers of Greater Kansas City; Missouri Bar Association; Kansas Bar Association; Missouri Organization of Defense Lawyers; and Defense Research Institute (DRI).

Lewis received her J.D. from the University of Missouri School of Law and her Bachelor of Science Degree in economics and political science from the University of Missouri-Columbia. She has been a practicing attorney with Sandberg Phoenix since 2014. Lewis resides in Kansas City, where she is chair of the Municipal Art Commission for the City of Kansas City, Missouri, and is an active member in the Junior League of Kansas City, Missouri.

Sandberg Phoenix continues to focus on growth, with a commitment to talent and diversity. Sandberg Phoenix's Kansas City office is home to 14 staff members and 15 attorneys. The firm employs more than 150 attorneys across six offices in Missouri and Illinois.
