Warranty Litigation

Our attorneys have considerable experience in a range of warranty litigation matters.

We represent a number of major automobile and truck manufacturers and other companies, vigorously defending their interests in breach of warranty actions alleging defective design, materials or workmanship. Our other clients include manufacturers of industrial products, recreational vehicles, personal water crafts, construction equipment and all kinds of consumer products.

Our firm also advises clients on the warrantability of products and systems and assists them in drafting warranty language, in a proactive effort to protect them from litigation. We provides a full slate of legal consulting services for companies that manufacture and distribute consumer goods, helping them to fully understand their rights and responsibilities under the law.
