

John Gilbert

SHAREHOLDER IN EDWARDSVILLE, IL

Practicing law since 1975, John Gilbert brings a wealth of experiences representing some of the largest companies in the United States to the firm's Edwardsville office. John is a member of the Business and Business Litigation practice groups and focuses his practice on labor and employment, commercial and higher education law, as well as civil rights defense and correctional medicine.

John serves as the Team Leader of the Correctional Medicine Industry Team at Sandberg Phoenix.

When working with clients, John dives in head first, getting to know all about the client, their businesses and the environment in which they operate. He is dedicated to first listening to his clients and working with them collaboratively to achieve their goals.

John's favorite hobby is reading, especially mystery novels and academic publications about ethics in business.

John began his career as Assistant General Counsel and then Acting General Counsel at the office of the General Counsel of Southern Illinois University Edwardsville before moving into private practice. During this time, he advised clients and tried cases that included First Amendment claims, civil rights and employment law claims, unfair labor practice charges, arbitrations, probate, commercial litigation and other matters relating to his areas of practice. Since 1983, John has held an appointment as an Assistant State's Attorney for Madison County, Illinois.

A former member of the Illinois Civil Service Commission from 1978 to 1991, John served as a lecturer in Management and Marketing at Southern Illinois University Edwardsville, a position he held from 1985-2020, teaching courses in business ethics, business law, cyberlaw and labor and employment law.

John is certified as a sexual harassment prevention trainer.

SUCSESSES

In 2018, John obtained defense verdicts in three federal court jury trials in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Illinois. In the correctional medicine case, the plaintiff claimed constitutional violations by a doctor arising out of his medical care of the plaintiff. Following that, John won a case with a week-long trial brought against two Madison County, Illinois jail officers, the sheriff, and the county brought by the family of an inmate who had attempted suicide. The final trial was a correctional medicine team case on behalf of a doctor where the plaintiff there sued over a cavity search.

In 2015, John obtained a jury verdict in favor of Madison County and two of its deputies in an attempted suicide case in federal court brought by a jail inmate.

John obtained a jury verdict in May 2014 in favor of the Madison County State's Attorney in a federal suit filed by a former Assistant State's Attorney under the ADA and the Illinois Human Rights Act over the Assistant's termination.

In 2012, John obtained a jury verdict after a six day trial in favor of two Madison County Sheriff's Deputies in one of the first civil rights taser cases tried in Madison County, Illinois Circuit Court.

John has also obtained several other jury verdicts and summary judgments in favor of his clients in both federal and state courts in civil rights and employment cases.
